The New Constitution Again.

The common sentiment heard everywhere since we published the summary of the terms of Confederation, negotiated by our Delegates at Ottawa, is one guaranteeing Responsible Government to the people of British Columbia Some warm and long-tried friends of Confederation declare that they would not cross the street for such terms, without self government be guaranteed. Others, whose fidelity to Confederation has been proven by their unwavering adherence to the cause in every stage from its incept'on here and in Canada down to the present time, boldly declare that unless Responsible Government be made a sine qua non they will oppose Confederation at the polls. Others, again, assert that the Governor don't Confederation, and that is the reason why self Government is ignoredcrushed. Another party maintains that the three Delegates manimously opposed self-government at Ottawa. Every-where the first inquiry about the terms is, what about Responsible Government? The strongest and deepest political feeling in this community is apparently that in favor of Responsible Government; and the feeling does honor alike to the head and heart, to the manhood of our izens as men and Englishmen. Men cel that their lives have been wasted, blasted, frittered away ; their substance eaten up in taxation; that day by day they have been treated as serfs; that their manhood and their rights are ignored—and all by an insolent mob of officials; and to expect them now, after years of forbearance, to be ready to barter their right to freedom-selfgovernment—the right of the people to manage their own affairs—for Canadian gold—need any one be surprised at the latensity of public feeling? We indeed wonder at popular forbearance The cause of the people is, however, likely to be tried out now, no matter whether it concerns Gov. Musgrave, Canada, or England. These three are the offending parties. So far as Governor Musgrave can be judged by the utterances of his organ, he is mainly to blame. He proposes, we are told, to give the Colony six nominees to none elective members in one chamber This is not the doings of the Home G ment without his counsel and advice. Here is the notice of the Bill that is passing through the Imperial Parliament. Read it:

"Earl Granville has introduced a bill into the Upper House to empower Her Majesty by an Order in Council to make and revoke or alter Orders in Council for con-tituting a Legislature for British Columbia, con-isting of the Governor and a Legislative Council for the Colony, and to make such provisions and regulations respecting the constitution, powers and proceedings of the Legislature, or either branch thereof, the number, the appointment, and election of the members of Legislative Council, their tenure of office, and generally in respect of such Legislature or either branch thereof, as may seem to her or either branch thereof, as may seem to ner expedient; also to empower the Governor of the Colony, with or without any condition or restrictions, by proclamation to determine the qualification of electors and of elective members of the Legislative Council, and to make provision for the division of the Colony into convenient electoral districts; and for the registration of persons qualified to Mark it, that the Queen will be emcowered to make a new order in Conneil shaping the Constitution of the Colony.

Does any one suppose that the English
Ministry know anything or will do anything except as instructed by Gov. Musgrave? In that case whatever the order in Council may contain, he will be the author, and he the responsible party.

His Executive advisers are but his tools. They see with his eyes, hear with his ears, and speak with his tongue. He is the Alpha and Omega of our political system; and to gratify his pride-in gaining emoluments and honors, the people of this country are to be treated as if they were no better than slaves. So far as Canada is concerned it is no use to plead excuses. She has just been whip-ped into common sense by Riel and fol-lowers; and can she expect that British Columbians who have travelled the world over are likely to be contented with institutions less liberal than the Manitobans? Now the remedy is in the hands of the people against Gov. Musgrave and Canada. The people must acquaint Gov. Mutgrave, Sir John Young, and Earl Granville, by petition and telegraph that they will not accept such an in-famous constitution—a six-by-nine Conncil-but that they will be free. Let the people be prepared to act, and act at

The Spanish King Imbroglie.

The attitude of France towards Prussia and main can only be accounted for by the assumption that if a Prussian Prince were placed on the throne of Spain that Pruseia would spee facto become the greatest power on the Continent, and France be surrounded by countries hostile to the views of the pres it Imperial Family. This will appear feasenable, if we recollect that there is already an alliance between Prussia and Italy, and and through that alliance, Victor Emanuel acquired the Lombardo, Venetian States. If, in addi for to the Italian alliance, Prussia could succeed in making Spain an ally in peace and war, by placing a Prussian prince on the throne, King William would become the arbiter of Europe, and the Prussian alliance would be Prussia, Italy and Spain, against France and Austria. The smaller powers of Europe need scarcely be consideris case of a struggle. We cannot believe that there is much likelihood of a war between France and Prussia, since the latter power has so distinctly denied that it is a party to the election of Prince Leopold to the Spanish throne. Besides, it may be questionable whether the disaffected condition of some of the German States acquired by Prussia, would warrant the latter country in plunging into a war. Nothing but a point of National honor is likely now to cause Prussia to break the peace. If France confines berself to reasonable demands, the Imbroglio w ll have to be worked out between the Madrid and Paris Cabinets. The withdrawl of the Prussian Prince would add materially to the prestige of the Emperor and make up in some degree in the ey s of the French people for the loss of prestige in Mexico, and in the Luxembourg affair. The latest advices seem favorable to peace—for if there be no cause for war between France and Prussia, war be-

FROM THE WEST COAST .- The sloop Thorn-100, Cap. Brown, arrived from the West Coast yesterday afternoon, and reports being in company with the schooner Favorite from Queea Charlotte Island, three days ago, off Barelay Sound. The Favorite will be here to-morrow. The whalers are in high spirits to-morrow. The whalers are in high spirits about their future prospects. They will commence operations in a few days more. The Indians are very troublesome along the coast, on account of the quantity of liquor which is so d them in Victoria and theu taken down to their homes, where they drink it and down to their homes, where they drink it and keep the white settlers in fear all the time. Legitimate traders cannot do any-thing there on account of the Indians being in such a state of drunkeness. FROM THE MAINLAND .- The steamer Enterprise, Capt. Swanson, arrived last night at 9:30 o'clock, frem New Westminster via Maple Bay, where she took on board all the lictorians who were at the camp meeting. Among the passengers from the mainland were Mr. Landvoight of Yale, J. G. Vinter, Miss Cooper, Miss enny and a few others. CONTRADICTION .- We have been requested by Capt Harrison, of the steamship Pelican, to contradict a rumor which has been going the rounds in this city, to the effect that the steamer was leaking bad'y. On the up-trip the steamer made a little water, but the leak was stopped upon her arrival here, and the pumps have not been used since. Parties who have friends on board need not feel at all alarmed as to the safety of the vessel.

SURGICAL OPERATIONS .- Last week, Dr Davie performed two very difficult surgical operations in this city. One was taking an abscess from the liver of a man named Torrens, and the other was taking a large tumor from the chest of a man named Campbell.

Omineca Intelligence.

(From the Sentinel, June 25th) Nine men arrived at Quesnelmouth on the 19th June from Vitale Creek, with news from the new mines. It will be remembered that a few parties started from William Creek for Omineca, proceeding in boats by way of Bear river. The first party Laidlaw & Co, descended the river and were on their way to Vitale creek when last heard from. The mining news is just the same as has already appear ed, not being very cheering. Provisions were selling very cheap and not much demand for them. There is about 250 men including Chinamen at the mines. The men who went via the Skeena arrived all safe and experienced no difficulty in travelling after leaving about to start for Nation river on a pro-pectniners out prospecting.

From informa-tion received at a settlement called Bocca, on the Teacapan, they became convinced that she was here and pushed on 42 miles from the mouth; arriving at the steamer's hiding place at 7:30; the steamer boarded and taken, but it was discovered that all the extra force had been moved ashore in madgrove bushes and had erected a battery with the howitzers of the News and lacking on board the first of the Forward, leaving on board the first cutter, commanded by Ensign J. M. Wain-wright; started in pursuit of a boat which was escaping from the steamer and received the first volley of musketry accompanied by shell, shrapnel and canister from the bushes. The coxswain, James Doune I, was instantly killed and Wainwright and two of the crew severely wounded. Firing from the bushes was continued until the return fire from the Mohican's launches obliged them to desert their pieces, but afterwards recom-menced and made hot work for the Mohicans. Finding the steamer drawing seven feet and aground in five feet of water, and that it would be impossible ever to get her out of the river, Lieut. Brownson concluded to fire her, and emptied into the coal pit and bedding a large fiask of turpentine, which had been taken for signal purposes, afterward the whole was set on fire in three places. About 8:30 p. m. the party returned to the Mohican, covering their retreat with howitzers. Arrived on board at 2 p. m. on the 10th, when she immediately got under weigh and steamed to this port.
